Vince Hafeli posted:

Barnie: You have been in my thoughts throughout yesterday and today since Hector alerted me about your mother. I expect that she was quite a woman based on the son she raised. I am sure that today will be tough, but tomorrow will be better and each passing day will improve. I speak from experience. People always say to remember the good times. I will tell you to also remember the not so good times because those are the times that made your family stronger. Let me know if there is anything that I or Ajax can do for you.
